

Now Hiring Summer Environmental Education Intern

Pay: $20-25/hr based on experience • 16-24 hrs/week • June 1st – September 30th

Compensation: Approx. $1,920/month

About the Opportunity:

The Providence Urban Wildlife Conservation Partnership is seeking a motivated student interested in environmental education and conservation to join our team this summer. This role is ideal for college students looking for hands-on, community-focused experience.

Minimum Qualifications

- High school diploma
- Strong English reading/writing skills

Preferred Qualifications

- Fluency in another language
- Some college coursework in education, STEM, or graphic design
- Valid driver's license and access to a vehicle

What You'll Do

- Lead nature-based activities for youth and families
- Support education around the Point Street River Project
- Assist with outreach events, tabling, and public engagement
- Create social media content and simple graphics
- Help launch Jr. Birder Program
- Track participation metrics and take event photos
- Support website and social media projects

What You'll Gain

- Real-world experience in environmental education and program facilitation
- Connections with environmental educators and nonprofit partners
- A portfolio of curriculum, outreach materials, and project contributions

Apply by: May 29th

To apply please email resume and cover letter to ecornelison@providenceri.gov